sometimes think his female contemporary can JULIET V. STRAUSS. give herself away more completely than he can. The young animal of either sex, when arrived at the "smart" age, is indeed a trial, to beholders in general and to parents in particular.

Patiently, and in a chastened mood, we must live through the perteches, the heavy tragedles, the sickening affectation, the mouthing, the baby talk, the mincing walk, the wagging head, that belongs to the fool age. By turns we take courage, remembering our own idiocy and how we came through it, and again we never were quite so bad, and that our child is not merely at the ally age, but that the fool goes all the way through and there is absolutely no remedy. In moments of desperation we wonder if a cudgel or a perforated shingle would do any good, and then parental affection gushes forth and we are appalled at the thought of so disgraceful a thing as corporal stisement for a child supposed to be "grown."

No, there is no help for it. We must let nature take its course, thanking lucky stars if the happy young fool comes off without ruining his prospects in life.

In gazing upon the youthful subjects of this sketch, I wonder which is more painful to the beholder who has come to years of discretion, to see them walk or to hear them talk. In walking there seems to be a sort of spiral wiggle in the gait that produces, at once, a strut and a wobble of the bend deemed particularly pleasing. In talking there is a disposition not to speak plainly, to bite off the words about half articulated and to assume a peculiar quirk of the eyes or twist of the mouth, which, it is to be hoped, is thoroughly enjoyable to the speaker as it is so utterly exasperating to the hearer as almost to provoke to assault and battery.

I once knew a father belitgerent old lady, who, in a luckless moment fell afoul of one of these young women who was living through the fool period. After listening to her queer jargon a while, the old lady inquired; 'Is there anything the matter with your talking apparatus, or is this here mumblin' meant for style?

After all is said and done, however, we old folks must return to the only remedy for our rasped nerves patience. We must bear with our dear-ones and love them through it all and stand ready to confront them when the gayly-tinted balloon of fatuous fancy and self-esteem bursts and they come down with a dull thud to life and its actualities.—Juliet V. Strauss, in the Chicago Journal.

In the improvement of corn by seed election an endeavor should be made to start with the best variety, as ascertained by actual tests in the field through a sufficient number of years to diminate weather conditions. It must be borne in mind that in all plant improvement the same principles and practices that have been employed such striking results in the improvement of the different breeds of animals must be followed.

For corn there are three general methods of improvement: First, by importation of seed from some reputable breeder or grower; second, by the own field or from a neighbor's; third, by careful selection and growing of

The nose of Cleopatra had a marked unuence on the destinles of the clent world. The bundwriting of Napoleon I., we are assured by recent historians had a similar effect upon the evolution of the modern world. He did not write; he scrawled. By reason of this, among other causes, he lost Waterloo, Grouchy could not read with exactness his decisive message. Was it "bataille engagee" (battle is on), or btaille gagnee" (battle is won)? Grouchy chose the latter significance and, not believing it necessary to press forward, arrived too late. So much for

If you wish to succeed in the world be careful of your heavy and your light strokes. What Shall We Do! I've Got to Build Granaries.!'

A letter written to a Canadian gov-ernment agent from Tipton, Ind., is but one of many similar that are in the hands of the Canadian government agents whose privilege it is to offer one hundred and sixty acres of land free, and low rallway fares. But here is a copy of the letter?

"Tipton, Ind., Nov. 28, 1906.

"At your earnest solicitation a party of us from Tipton left May 15 for Western Canada. Our interviews with you and a careful study of your literature led us to expect great things of your country when we should arrive there, and we were not disappointed. We went prepared to make a careful examination of the country and its resources, and we did so. At early dawn the second morning out of Tipton we awoke in a new world. As far as the eye could reach was an apparently limttless expanse of new sown wheat and prairie grasses. The vivid green of the wheat just beginning to stool out, and the inky blackness of the soil contrasted in a way beautiful to see. An hour or two later we steamed into Winnipeg. Here we found a number of surprises. A hundred thousand souls well housed, with every convenience that goes to make a modern, up-to-date banks, hotels, newspapers, stores, electric lights, street railways, sewer age, water works, aspbalt pavements everything. With eyes and ears open we traveled for two thousand miles through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, going out over the Canadian Pacific Raliway, via Calgary to Edmonton and returning to Winnipeg over the Canadian Northern Railway. In the meantime we made several side trips and stopped off at a number of points where we made drives into the surrounding country. On every hand were evidences of prosperity. The growing wheat, oats, rye; flax, barley, not little patches, but great fields, many of them a square mile in extent, the three, five and sometimes seven liorse teams laying over an inky black ribbon of yellow stilbble, generally in furrows straight as gun barrels and at right angles from the roads stretchthe distance, contrasted strangely with our little fields at home. The towns, both large and small, were doubly conspicuous, made so, first by their newness and second by the towering elevators necessary to hold the immense crops of wheat grown in the immediate neighborhood. The newness, the thrift, the hustle

the sound of saw and hammer, the tents housing owners of buildings in various stages of completion, the piles of household effects and agricultural implements at the railway stations waiting to be hauled out to the 'Claims,' the occasional steam plow day, the sod house, the unpainted house of wood, the up-to-date modern residence with large red bara by, all these were seen everywhere we went, an ear nest of prosperity and wealth to be We talked with men and visited their places that four years ago was unbro ken prairie. Their houses, barns, im-plements and live stock were the equal of anything in Tipton County and why not, when they were raising five, ten and twenty, yes lu one instance forty thousand bushels of wheat a year. The fact that such large wheat are raised so easily and so sure ly impressed us very favorably. And when we saw men who four or five years ago commenced there with two or three thousand dollars, and are now as well fixed and making money much easier and many times faster than-lots of our-acquaintances-on-Indiana-farms fifty years cleared and valued at four as much we decided to invest So we bought in partnership a little over two thousand acres, some of it improved and in wheat. "Before leaving Indiana, we agreed that if the opportunities were as they were represented to be, that we would buy, and own in partnership a body of land, and leave one of our number to look after and operate it.

This we accordingly did. "Just_before time_to_thresh_I_re ceived a letter from him. What shall questions. Binger Hermann Not Guilty.
The Washington (D. C.) jury which had heard the extensive testimony sub-mitted in the case of the government against Binger Hermann, former commis-sioner of the general land office, on the charge of destroying letter press copy books containing official records of the office rendered a verdict of not guilty.

The trial had lasted ten weeks, and the jury deliberated twenty-one hours. Mr. Hermann, after being dismissed by for-mer Secretary Hitchcock, was elected representative in Congress by his Oregon constituency, notwithstanding that he was under the cloud of an indictment. He admitted having destroyed the books, but said they contained nothing but private correspondence, while the government held that they contained evidence connect ing him with certain land frauds,

There are two methods of treatment, the old one by which the stomach is humored by the use of predigested foods and artificial ferments, and the new one by which the stomach is toned up to do the work which nature intended of it. A recent cure by the tonic treatment is that, of Mrs. Mary Stackpole, of 81 Liberty street, Lowell, Mass. She says:

"I suffered constantly for years from stomach trouble and terrible backaches and was confined to my bed the greater part of three years. I was under the care of our family, physician most of the time, but did not seem to get better.

"I was completely run-down and was not able to do my work about the house. My blood was impure and my complexion pale. I suffered from flashes of heat, followed suddenly by chills. I had awful headsches, which lasted from three to four days. I could get but little rest at night, as my sleep was broken and fifth!. As a result I lost several prounds in weight and became very ner-

"I was in a wretched condition when I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I started to take the pills at once and legan to gain in weight and health. GREAT NEED OF WORLD.

By Rev. Henry Marsh Warren shall be witnesses unto Me. -Acts 1:8.

While our Lord was upon earth the disciples were not asked to be witnesses; they were simply to follow their Master, to listen to His marvelous eachings and to observe His wonder ful works. "Ye are my witnesse Hereafter you must stand in my place, take up my work, fight my battles manifest my love and gather in my lewels." In other words, He then in trusted to His disciples and to His church both the honor of His name and the great work of redeeming the world for God.

A witness for God must live a Christ-● like life. It is far easier to stand up and proclaim that Jesus is the light of the world than it is to live exemplify-ing the saying. "Ye are the light of the world." And by the Christ-like life we mean representing Christ at all times and in all places, not only in the house of God on a Sunday, or in the prayer meeting, but also in the home and in business and social life.

Another way by which we may be come faithful witnesses is by direct and zealous labor to help the many unfor tunate people about us. I believe the church falls in this respect more than any other. Churches provide well for the comfort of their members, and our preachers are able and consecrated men of God, but individual labor for the individual soul is lacking. It is a wrong idea that personal labor and oral witnessing for God are for ministers only.

One verse in the Bible beautifully describes the life of Christ, viz.: "He went about doing good." should characterize the life of His followers. We should "go about

"But how," some one may ask, "are we to do it?"- Let me mention-two or low God, and so prove that we are faithful witnesses.

1. By helping those who need help. There are hundreds and thousands of opportunities in this great city and that health that comes from steadily er the world. What they need is the helping hand. If the church is to give salvation to the masses who are outside and are living lives of sin and sorrow, she must give her attention to ministering to the needy.

2. By sympathizing with those who need sympathy. Jesus was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. He never failed to express it when occaufforded. The world's great heart tian sympathy. WHAT IS VIRTUEP By Henry F. Cope

"Adding on your part all diligence in your faith supply virtue and in your virtue knowledge."—II: Peter 1:5. Who is the virtuous person? What is the virtuous life? Is he the bearer of no more than spotless life? Is vir tue the leaving undone of vice? Is it legation and denial? Then is the polished marble more virtuous than the saint. You cannot be measure by the things you leave undone.

virtue, then, the clamorous ere tion of some standard of living and the duly advertised attainment thereto Is it even the secret, modest effort of formity to a fixed code or rule of daily living -the doing of cortain things in certain ways at certain times?

Is the virtuous life the one that folprecisely the prescribed rules and schedules of conduct?

The last is the notion most generally entertained. Yet how fallacious it is. It is the secret of priggishness; the standard attained, we have the sin of into a blind machine; your mechanical noralist is no more virtuous than any other machine. He lacks life and free dom of choice. Virtue is, first of all, vital; it cannot be found with the eyes shut nor with the will atrophical. Virtue is strength; it is moral and spiritual health. It is not in doing or leaving undone; it is not in feeling good or bad; it is not in sentimonts or doctrines, either false or true. It is that perfect ordering, adjusting and outflowing of the whole inner life which in its more material and evident aspects we call health and strength. The doing, feeling and thinking flow from this fight inner, determinating tone.

The morally healthy man will love the things that are good and pure; he will loathe the base and defiling. Only a deprayed appetite turns to the garb age can when there is a well spread table waiting. Did we but understand it we would despise and fear still more victous inner appetite that turn the whole life toward things corrupt and rotten when there awaits on every hand in this fair world so much that is beautiful and wholesome.

Have you ever thought how largely health and strength depend on tastes ind appetites? Who can be healthy with a perverted craving to which he yields? Such tastes depend on training and cultivation. So it is with virtue; strength of the soul, health of the heart lies on the road of the choice of things that are best, is acquired by the deliberate and constant choosing of things that are right, pure, elevating

Virtue, then, rests on faith, not blind belief in certain dogmatic statements, but the unward look the noble aspira ion, the high-mindedness that lifts up the heart. It takes this spirit, this faith, this confidence in things unseen to enable us to choose the best to cullife. Otherwise the heart that was meant to feed on the invisible bread snatches the evident husks of earth

There is no virtue without this faith in_high_ideals, in_things_not_seen. A man may be just he may be honest but he cannot find virtue as a matter be bought. It is acquired only as we set the heart on character, as we learn to love the good and true for its own | sula

This healthfulness of soul comes also through struggle. Vice is made to serve virtue as we strive against it Using moral muscles, we find and harden them. He who flees temptation, who shrinks from the soul searching crises of life, misses the best that life has to give. In the gymnasium of-temptation and trials the full strength of character is won. That does not mean_that_one_must_seek_out_vice; itmeans we must meet every foe to his face.

Count him virtuous whose face is set three very simple and practical ways, toward the light; who lives on a grade that leads up; who is strong to serve doing bring the world to know and fol- his fellows, to make a better world, to face and fight all things that spoil and mar; who lives not for ment or money. but for manhood, for truth and beauty For virtue is that habit of the soul. seeking things good and true, that strength that comes from struggle and service: it is the inner life victorious over the outer temptation.

WEALTH IN SUNKEN LOGS. Millions of Dollars' Worth of Timber

With the beds of many Michigan streams veritable gold mines in their wealth of sunken logs, little is being done at present in the way of recovering this "dead-head" timber and putting it to commercial use. This is due to adverse court decisions which have head that the sunken logs belong to the owners of the river banks and not to the lumbermen who lost the timber. A number of com-panies have been organized to conduct submarine logging operations, but as it is necessary now to come to some agreement with farmers and other possessors of riparian rights the plans of the promoters lave been seriously deranged. However, with pine lumber 100 per cent higher than a decade ago, there is believed to be much money in the recovery of these dead heads," and it is likely that before the lapse of a great interval of time advantage will be taken of the opportunity offered. It is estimated that there are offered. It is estimated that there are fully 100,000,000 feet of timber lying on the bottom of Saginaw river and its trib utaries. For twenty-five years these streams carried big drives of logs cach spring, and during that period more than twelve thousand million feet of logs were rafted out. There are large quantitle of sunken logs in the Muskegon, Riffe-Au Sable and Au Gros rivers which it would undoubtedly pay well to recover, and the same is true of the Menominee and its tributaries in the upper penin-

Strikes at Mortgage Tax. The lower house of the Legislature by a vote of 50 to 20 Tuesday passed a bill to repeal the law which lays a 2 per cent tax on mortgages and all credits. This law has been strongly attacked on the ground that instead of reaching the money lenders it has, in actual practice, money lenders it has, in actual practice, merely placed an additional burden upon the borrower, who was compelled by the lender to pay the 2 per cent mortgage tax in addition to the tax on the property mortgaged and the stipulated interest. Governor Warner opposes the repeal bill, and it is expected to meet opposition in

Why Her Ladyship Surrendered

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Once upon a time, in a certain Aus trailan capital, there was a man who was a member of the legislative coun-cil, a squatter, a merchant and a millionaire, all at the same time. His name was Alexander Dives.

Lady Dives was a leader of society, which means that she opened subscription lists with crushing munificence, and entertained on a scale which sclipsed even vice-royalty itself. Lady Dives had a daughter whom we called the "Divinity." She was a sweet girl, and had been brought up strictly under her mother's eye, a fact which in itself was sufficient to guarantee her fit to become a king's consort. But though she spoke five European languages like a native, and could ride, dance, sing and play half a dozen instruments better than most professionals, she was not proud, but In order to facilitate his public duties Sir John employed as private sec-retary a most meritorious young man who signed his letters Charles Gren-ville Bassidge. This gentleman lived at Dives Park and was brought into daily contact with his employer's family. He was a good looking silent young Englishman of mysterious an-tecedents, who declined to talk of his past, and said he had come out to make his fortune; but as this is what every newcomer says, nobody gave him credit for originality. However, he made a very good amanuensis.

In spite of his exemplary behavior her ladyship regarded him with suspiclous eyes. She saw that the "Divin-ity" favored him greatly, and & was plain to all of us that he was more than a little in love with her.

Having grasped the enormity of this, Lady-Dives lectured her daughter severely, while Sir John conveyed a delicate hint to his private secretary that it would be better perhaps if he were to devote himself more assidnously to his duties.

Then it came to passing notes at

The night that Bassidge bade farewell to Dives Park the "Divinity" cried rself to sleep with a photo and bundle of billets-doux under her pil-She asserted that "her Charles was not a "'pauper" and a "nobody,' and she said she "would rather die than give him up!"

The new secretary proved to be a fittle sandy-haired man, who wore spectacles, and confined his attentions solely to his blue books, being wise enough to leave female society alone. Her ladyship satisfied herself that he was not dangerous, and for a month things went smoothly.

About this time, Mr. C. G. Bassidge, who before had declined every invita-tion he received, suddenly became a great votary of fashion, religiously athope, I suppose, of meeting with his Sir John, Lady and Miss Dives were Invariably conspicuous by their absence. Every day the warfare grew siders wondered how it would end. As might be expected, public sympathy was entirely with the lovers, and to my knowledge Mr. Charles Grenville Bassidge had more than one offer of instructing the coachman to keep the horses moving, entered the shop. The dress having been fitted to her satisfaction, she watched her opportunity, and, as the carriage was going up the street, she strolled quietly out of the shop and down the pavement in the opposite direction. On reaching the general post office she chanced upon Mr. Bassidge, and after a moment's conversation they entered a hansom together and drove cal schemes-it was a relief for her

Lady Dives was beside herself with rage, and consequently Sir John was furious, and a penitent note which ar-rived next morning, signed "Gwendoline Bassidge," only made them the more vehamently declare that neither she nor her pauper husband should ever set foot within their doors again. This was, of course, very unpleasant for the "Divinity," for, in spite of their cruel opposition, she was really very fond of her parents. At the cleverest, the handsomest, as well as the wisest man in existence, and had only to be known to be appreciated by everyone. That young gentleman, though per-
